WAR BULLETINS

COAST BLACKOUT

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—Northern California was blacked out for 65 minutes early today when the army air corps' fourth interceptor command flashed a "red" alert indicating overhead.

The army ordered police here to broadcast a "blue" warning indicating approaching aircraft at 2:18 a. m. PST and a few minutes later issued the "red" alarm.

All California from Bakersfield to Oregon state line was ordered blacked out. Radio stations were ordered off the air.

(A report received at McClellan Field, army air depot at Sacramento, said that "hostile aircraft" approaching the coast caused the alarm. Authorities refused to elaborate.)

The all clear was issued at 3:23 a. m.

Los Angeles radio stations also were ordered to cease broadcasting except for one-minute announcements every hour and the federal communications forbade any announcements as to when they might return to the air.

San Francisco, lashed by an army commander for its "criminal apathy" toward its first air raid warning Monday night, did better today and blacked almost completely during the alarm.

Lieut. Gen. John L. DeWitt, the commander of the Fourth Army, last night bawled out a civil defense council meetings for the city's complacency during army-ordered air-raid alarms Monday night and warned that "death and destruction are likely to come to this city at any moment."

He urged civilians, however, not to be jittery.

"Turn off your lights and then sit there and take it," he said. "There's nothing else you can do. If you can't take it, get out of San Francisco."

NEW YORK ALARM

NEW YORK — (UP)—The third, air raid alert in less than 24 hours was sounded today in the New York metropolitan area.

The third alarm, starting on the tip of Long Island, spread to communities lying in the direction of the city. The sirens shrieked in New York City at 8:49 a. m. as millions of persons were en route to work. At 9:01 a. m. the "all clear" was sounded.

The alarms apparently started from "phony" tips that caused two alarms yesterday. Capt. Lynn Far-nol, Public Relations officer at Mitchel Field, said no reports of approaching "unidentified aircraft" had been received there and no alert signals were sounded.

JAP WHISTLES

NEW YORK — (UP)—Stamped on the whistles issued to air raid wardens here is the phrase: "Made in Japan."

EVACUATE FT. MILEY

A San Francisco radio broadcast heard in Placerville shortly after one o'clock Wednesday said that inmates of the Ft. Miley veterans' hospital are being evacuated to hospitals in Arizona and at Boise, Ida.

REDS REPORT GAINS

MOSCOW — (Taas Broadcast recorded by United Press at New York) — Counter-attacking Russian troops have regained complete control of the key railroad city of Tikhvin on the Leningrad front, smashing three German divisions and leaving more than 7,000 Nazi dead, the official Soviet information bureau said today.

(British sources said the new Soviet success placed the Red army in position for attacks against the Nazi right wing on the frozen Leningrad front.)

SPY EXECUTED

LONDON (UP)—A British home office announcement today said Richard Richter, 29, Sudetan German, was executed this morning at Wandsworth prison as a spy. Richter parachuted from a German plane over Hertfordshire last May 13.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL NEARING FINAL REPORT

Mrs. R. A. Sinclair, chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call, reported Wednesday that with approximately $1,700 realized, the Roll Call is nearing a final report.

The chairman reports $33.60 received from a card party given at Merryman's on Thursday of last week. Mrs. James Merryman was quoted as expressing general thanks for support for the activity.

Special gifts to the Roll Call, not previously announced, are from Placerville Eagles Auxiliary, El Dorado Limestone, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Galt, Safeway store.

Additions to the "one hundred per cent" list include El Dorado Limestone Company and Pacific Minerals Co., Ltd.

COUNTY REPRESENTATIVES AT WESTERN FAIR CONFERENCE

Chairman Cyril Heusner, of the Board of Supervisors, and George E. Faugstad, chairman of the 1941 fair association, are at Los Angeles this week representing the county at the annual meeting of the Western Fairs Association.

By action of the Supervisors at their December meeting the two were directed to make the trip.

While we have no desire to be the fountain-head for a rumor which may prove to be nothing more than that, we feel compelled to say that we have heard some discussion among those prominently connected with the 1942 fair plans as to whether it is advisable that a fair be or be not held.

Elk Shot 54 Times

JACKSON, Wyo. (UP)—One of Jackson's biggest elk has been shot 54 times this season but remains standing firmly in the snow-swept hills north of town. The "animal" isn't alive but is a stuffed elk which pranksters set up in the woods to fool hunters. Fifty-four marksmen hit it, but upon discovering the joke, all left the elk standing for the next Nimrod.

TODAY'S WAR MOVES

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
Of The United Press War Desk

The Japanese, having scored heavily in the opening rounds of the battle of the Pacific, are hitting hard in an all out effort to win control of the western half of that ocean.

The attack on Pearl Harbor was the first step. The Japanese were out to cripple part of the U. S. fleet by a surprise foray and succeeded to an extent which has not yet been fully revealed. They also sought to intimidate the U. S. into keeping a good part of the fleet and air force in the eastern Pacific for defense.

Parallel moves were the attacks on Midway, Wake and Guam islands, which the Japanese now hold or threaten. The islands are America's aerial "stepping stones" to the Philippines and the rest of the Orient. Their loss would be a handicap to the mobility of American opera-

Without them, it is officially estimated by the British that Japan has enough reserves for at least a year of full war. With them, she might be able to carry on indefinitely, as long as her navy holds out.

Test Blackout For City Is Seen

DEFENSE UNIT TO MEET ON THURSDAY

Civilian Plans Will Be Centralized In County Organization

Preliminary plans for a test blackout of Placerville and environs civilian air raid defense were being discussed Wednesday as the County Council of Defense was called to meet at one o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Board of Supervisors' room at the courthouse.

While plans for a blackout of the community are included in the preparations of the defense council, it was pointed out Wednesday that a test blackout will provide opportunity for all to become familiar with some of the practices to be followed.

Meanwhile, as various agencies and organizations launched activities in support of the defense program, attention was directed to the desirability of co-ordinating all defense effort in the County Defense Council to the end that duplication of effort and conflict of authority and instructions may be avoided.

While it may have been generally supposed in some quarters that a community blackout would be brought about by the simple act of breaking power service to the community, it is pointed out that this is decidedly not the case, since there are electric power services which must be continued, even during a blackout.

This places upon the citizenry in general the responsibility of complying with the blackout instructions in so far as they relate to the individual places of business and the homes of the community and contemplates the creation of a civilian defense force to supervise and, if necessary, enforce the blackout, and to lead in extending such other services for the safety and well-being of the community as eventualities may make necessary.

ENEMY LANDS ON LUZON ISLAND

British Lose 2 Warships; Washington Reports Japs Repulsed North Of Manila

By UNITED PRESS America's first war communique today disclosed the defeat with heavy losses of a Japanese attempt to invade the Philippines.

However, enemy landing forces were reported officially in dispatches from Manila to have gained a foothold at Aparri on part of a 150-mile front on Luzon Island where fighting continued, and London acknowledged the loss of the big British dreadnaughts Prince of Wales and Repulse.

British land and air forces also were fighting two Japanese landing expeditions on the east coast of Malaya, including one attack only 200 miles north of Singapore naval base.

The first communique issued by the United States Army at Washington said an enemy landing force had been repulsed with the sinking of three transports and damaging of three others between San Fernando and Vigan, on the coast northwest of Manila. Dispatches from Manila, however, said that Japanese forces had landed at Aparri, about 250 miles northeast of Vigan.

Alien Roundup Is Announced

Citizenship Applications Filed Within Past Two Years To Be Held Up

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Attorney General Francis Biddle announced today 2,303 axis nationals have been taken into custody by the federal government. He said the majority would be placed in concentration camps supervised by the army.

Biddle disclosed that naturalization applications of German and Italian immigrants filed during the past two years would be held up for the duration of the war.

He said Axis nationals had been rounded up during a three-hour period in the Hawaiian Islands by military intelligence agents, and within two hours in continental United States by the FBI.

Biddle said those in custody included 1,291 Japanese, 865 Germans and 147 Italians.

The aliens seized represent only a fraction of the 1,100,000 Axis nationals living in United States territory.

Climate is not of primary importance in the treatment of tuberculosis. Competent medical care and rest are the greatest factors in recovery.

Battle Raging Near Manila

their first main assault was officially reported repulsed.
The struggle for the Island of Luzon, on which Manila is located, in the Philippines was carried on by what appeared to be large enemy forces with strong aerial support.
Three flights of Japanese planes, one of which contained about 57 craft, hammered again at the main defense positions on the island in an attempt to knock out American rear line bases. At least three planes were shot down.
Hostilities, especially at sea, were spreading rapidly in the far east and were increasing indications that Germany and Italy were preparing to march with the Japanese. London heard new reports that Adolf Hitler would declare war on the United States shortly at a meeting of the Reichstag in Berlin.
Developments on other main war sectors:

SINGAPORE — London acknowledged the 35,000-ton battleship Prince of Wales and the 32,000-ton battle cruiser Repulse had been sunk apparently by Japanese air attacks off the east coast of Malaya, where the Japanese battled to make a second landing only 200 miles north of the Singapore naval base. Fighting continued on the coast of north-east Malaya near Kota Bharu air-drome. German dispatches, which appeared to be deliberately distorted, said Tokyo also claimed the "almost certain" sinking of the British battleship King George V.

TOKYO — An official news agency broadcast quoted the government spokesman as acknowledging the loss of two transports and damage to two others. The loss of 13 army planes also was admitted, but the spokesman claimed that Japan had "smashed the main force" of the United States fleet.

MELBOURNE — Japanese again bombed the island of Nauru, north-east of Australia.
BERLIN—German sources claimed that "the greatest naval battle in history" was in progress in the Pacific Ocean.

Nye Nissen eggs—Large grade AA 38; medium grade A 33; small grade A 31.

"THE MANDARIN HOUSE MURDERS"

by Van Wyck Mason

CHAPTER XII
Speaking in his painfully correct English the Japanese announced, "This is almost certainly some form of the lexicon, or book cypher; the presence of these vertical bars are conclusive. The numbers set off by them indicate pages and lines."
Fiaschetti suddenly became voluble. "Look, my friends, in all the message the highest twice barred number is sixteen — therefore the key is not a book, but more likely a pamphlet or a —"
"A newspaper, North China News perhaps?" Chao Ku came waddling across the laboratory with it in his pudgy hand.
An almost tangible tenseness invaded the brilliantly lit laboratory. Then everyone began talking at once.
"Letter frequencies will tell the story, no?" predicted the Italian. "It should not be difficult to break."
But it was. No amount of calculation, transposition nor mathematics availed the perspiring cryptographers, and by two o'clock no real progress had been made. Precious time was slipping like quicksilver through the fingers, so North followed an old rule of his and temporarily abandoned the problem.
Leaving Kilgour and his assistants hard at work, he drove to his quarters at the American Club and from its library files extracted a copy of The North China Daily News similar to the one causing so many headaches in the Central Police Station. From a sleepy night clerk he secured a foot rule and then retired to his room where, heaving a grateful sigh, he undid his high collar and then pulled off his dress shirt. Supremely comfortable in trousers and singlet, he crossed to his desk and laid upon it the ruler, the newspaper and, lastly, the sheet imprinted by Chao Ku's hard pencil. Yawning, he lightly darkened the back of the sheet until the marks upon it appeared. By propping his work before his bureau mirror the inverted numbers appeared normal and he copied them off.
This done, Hugh North lit his pipe and commenced a slow prow around the room. Deliberately seeking to forget the problem, he crossed to the window and stared down upon the Bund. At this late hour the great avenue was deserted by all but barrow coolies trundling produce to market and a few miserable wretches scavenging along the gutters.
Out on the Whangpoo the riding lights of half a dozen warships blinked like the eyes of sleepy cats when the steel monsters swung to a changing tide, and off to his right hundreds of primitive lights in the sleepless Native City shone red-yellow instead of white-yellow, as in the French Concession. Was Luther Adams, hiding or a prisoner, somewhere in that direction?

"Get there first," G-2 had said. Um! What disasters did not impend if he failed? He dared not dwell, even for a moment, upon the magnitude of his responsibility. Odd how things happened sometimes. Everything indicated that someone, probably the killer of Louis Larousse, had carefully burnt a sheet of paper in the living room of suite 1315, and then had thrown it out of the window, quite unaware that an air current had promptly blown the ashes into the adjacent bathroom.
Despite all discouragements, he sensed the newspaper to be as much a part of the problem as the folding rule. And what about that rule? It presented a promising but singularly difficult clue. Why should a potential murderer carry a folding rule about with him? Had it been the property of Larousse? Or of Adams himself? In the morning he would give the point thorough consideration in the Central Station laboratory; somewhere so intricate an affair as the folding rule might conceal a hint of vital importance. Were they making any progress at the Central Station? He was troubled — his imagination itched and he didn't know where to scratch. Up on Nanking Road a clock sleepily banged out the hour of three.
Slowly rumpling his strong black hair, Hugh North went over the possible uses of such a rule — granted it was not intended for its essential purpose. But suppose in this case it had been used to measure something? Too often investigators were prone to discount an obvious explanation simply because it was obvious.
Adopting the thesis the murderer had required a ruler to measure with, he racked his brains while thinking of the rule in connection with the rest of the evidence. Burnt paper? Envelope? Newspaper? His restless parade came to a sudden halt beside the desk and even while he snatched up the sheet of numerals, his gaze sought the newspaper. Just out of reach fluttered an idea, but it remained infuriatingly elusive.
On inspiration, North picked up the telephone and called a police number reserved for Inspector Chao Ku.
"I'm getting nowhere fast, Chao, so I'd like company. Can you drop in?"
"This person is overwhelmed with unmerited honor. As with the wings of morning I hasten to American Club."
Inexplicably, the hitherto elusive idea crept into North's mental fingers just as he replaced the receiver and almost breathlessly he caught up the ruler. As usual it was subdivided into eighths, quarters and sixteenths. A consultation of the code message showed a figure nine set off by double bars, so he opened the Daily News to its ninth page and smoothed the rustling newspaper before him with fingers which
